IN SEVERAL PARTS—PART FOUR.

Casco Bay, June 2d, 1701.

A Memorial of the Treaty with the Indians by the Council of the Massachusetts Bay entitled the "Treaty of Belmonts treaty with the Algonquians."

I have stated the time of destruction of the fort that stood at the foot of India, then called King street, in Portland, as May, A. D. 1699. The name of the locality appears under different names—Casco, Falmouth, Old

Casco, Portland Neck being used at times. In the year of 1700 the locality was desolate, that is to say, no one was residing permanently upon the present site of the City of Portland with a legal title to the land. The Indian, casual visitors, actuated by curiosity, the exploring governmental official and wild beast roamed at will till the period of A. D. 1718 when a State right for a municipal government was obtained.

The charter called for a tract of land twelve miles square. Much trouble was not in establishing the bounds which,

as finally agreed upon included not only the present site of Portland, but the present towns of Falmouth, Cape Elizabeth, Westbrook and South Portland, which is the order in time they severally came into existence by name.

The land where Portland is situated was considered as barren, composed largely of ledge-rock and sand; it was a good place for drying fish but not for agriculture.

In 1701 a Fort had been erected a little easterly of the mouth of the Prospect river upon land known as the James Andrews farm. This was done by the Massachusetts government after thorough examination and mature deliberation, and for many years after the removal of the fort the location was known as Fort Point. The order to build was passed in the month of June A. D. 1700. The place was called New Casco and that of what is now known as Portland Old Casco. But the life of New Casco fort was of comparatively short duration, though the local name remained for a period of more than a century.

It was in the month of June, 1703,

the English and Indians held a grand council there. The fort was not constructed as a military resort, or place of defence, but more like a trading place, or truck house as such places were then called. The meeting was attracted by the chiefs of the Narragans-etts, Penobscots, Penacooks, Amer-icquians and Pequett tribes. The Americans comprised about 250 men in 65 canoes.

Twelve propositions were submitted to the English which were discussed at length, but I am obliged to pass all but one.

The twelfth proposition introduced

AT THE CAPITOL

Meeting of the State Highway Commission

One of the first official acts of the new highway commission was at its meeting, Thursday, to eliminate from its makeup all suggestions of politics or to adhere to any partisanship whatever, and it was emphatically made clear in the following resolution, that severe partisanship on the part of the employees would not, for a second, be tolerated.

This action on the part of the board will undoubtedly find much favor, and go a long way toward facilitating more efficient administration. The resolution: August 6, 1913, at the City of Portland, Maine.

The State Highway Commission, at a regular meeting held at Augusta this day, have unanimously adopted the following resolution:

WHEREAS—It is the unequalled purpose of the Commission to eliminate politics throughout its department and to perform its duties in the construction and maintenance of highways by placing its standard for employment on the basis of merit and efficiency, regardless of politics, be it hereby

Resolved, that offensive partisanship on the part of any employee of this department shall be considered a sufficient reason of dismissal, and

Resolved, that all employees of the department shall hereafter be selected solely on a basis of merit and efficiency, and that endorsements of a political nature or for a political purpose will not be considered by the Commission.

STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION,

By L. H. Nelson, Chairman.

Paul D. Barge, the chief engineer of the department, will assume his duties on August 14. The regular meeting time has been changed to 1 P. M.,

Thursday, instead of 10 A. M.

Following is the further business transacted at this week's meeting:

Voted that the commission proceed to arrange for designating State highways in the counties of York, Camberland, Oxford and Sagadahoc as follows:

State Highway "A" being the main travelled route already under construction, extending from Kittery to Portland via York, Hallowell, Wells, Kennebunk, Kennebunkport, Biddeford,

Saco, Scarborough, South Portland.

State Highway "B" extending from Fryeburg over the main travelled route

via Bridgton, Naples, Casco, Raymond,

Windham and Westbrook to Portland.

State Highway "C" extending from Portland to Bath via what is known as the Shore Road through Falmouth,

Cumberland and Yarmouth, thence to Freeport and Brunswick.

Voted that the acting chief engineer

be instructed to have a map prepared, showing the location of the designated highways with respect to other highways, and that he be empowered to employ a engineer or draftsman for this purpose, if the office force at present constituted is not able to do the work immediately.

Voted that the chairman be authorized and instructed to notify the Governor and Council that the commission is now preparing to designate certain highways in York, Cumberland, Oxford and Sagadahoc counties as State highways, upon which hearings will be duly given as required by law, and that the commission is prepared to promptly begin construction on such highways as soon as they are determined. The commission, therefore, respectfully suggests that the Governor and Council take measures to provide funds for commencing the construction of the above mentioned highways by the issue and sale of bonds as authorized by law,

CUT ORDERED IN EXPRESS RATES

Reductions Will Amount to $26,000,000 Yearly

Reductions in express rates which will cost the companies fully $26,000,000—approximately 10 per cent. of their gross revenue, have been ordered by the Interstate Commerce commission to become effective on or before Oct. 15, 1913. Notable reforms in practices also were ordered.

The most important change prescribed by the order is by way of modification of the present graduated scale of parcel rates. One hundred pound rates for short distances either have been left unchanged or slightly reduced; for longer distances they have been lowered; for fifty pounds or less all rates have been practically reduced. For packages more than four pounds going more than 200 miles and less than 2,000 the new express rates are generally lower than the parcel post rates; for more than 3,000 miles the rates are practically the same. The report and order of the commission, prepared by Commissioner John H. Marble, are a virtual affirmation of the findings of former Commissioner Franklin K. Lane, now secretary of the interior.

A Block System.

By prescribing a so-called block system dividing the United States into 650 blocks averaging 2,500 square miles as originally proposed by Mr. Lane, and 1,000,000 different rates now published by the express companies will be reduced to less than 650,000 and the Interstate Commerce commission believes that the system points the way to a solution of the existing maze of freight rates.

The general impression in official quarters is that the express companies will attempt to test by legal means the constitutionality of the commission's order.

The requirements of the order of June 8, 1912, that a label should be attached to each parcel is modified to the extent that, in case of shipments of perishable property, consisting of two or more packages, the label need be attached to only one package.

Losses of Revenue.

The express companies had filed statements indicating that the losses of revenue under the proposed rates would be intolerable and argued strenuously that the establishment of the parcel post had deprived them of quite 20 per cent. of the revenue they formerly received from parcels of eleven pounds or less. They contended that the express business could not survive the losses from both sources.

"This is equivalent to saying," comments Commissioner Marble, in his report, "that inasmuch as shippers have been given the convenience and economy of the parcel post the express carriers must, on that account, be allowed to charge higher rates than otherwise would be reasonable. That is to say, the commission is called upon to take from the shippers of the country all the benefits that they receive from the parcel post and give it to the express companies in the form of higher rates upon the remaining business."

New System of Rates.

The new system of rates is not only a simplification of existing rate structures and methods but in the opinion of rate experts lays the foundation for future practice in all rate revisions.

While the commission has not considered the practicability of the application of the block system to the making of freight rates, it is known that the question may be taken up almost at any time. With a standard freight rate case established between blocks instead of between points, and all other rates stated in percentages of the standard, the mystery of the present complicated maze of freight rates in the opinion of the commission's experts, would be solved.

The table of the classification proposed by the commission is that all articles of merchandise of ordinary value are to be carried at first class or ordinary rates, with a few exceptions as to bulky and heavy articles. Articles of first and second class are to be carried at 10 per cent. of the first class rate.

The rates for newspapers and periodicals as well as for bread and such articles for which specially low rates now are charged, are substantially the same.

A permanent committee has been appointed to revise the rules of express companies.

OXFORD COUNTY PATRIOTIC ASS'N

The members of the Oxford County Patriotic Association held a very interesting meeting at Central Park, So. Paris, on August 6th.

It had been learned that the Reller Corps of Oxford expected to attend in a body, and it was supposed that the president of the association, C. T. Wardwell of Oxford, would appear with the people from that town. But no one came from Oxford, and as the vice-presidents of the association were also absent, the business meeting of the association in the forenoon was called to order, on suggestion of some of those present, by Franklin Maxim of South Paris.

The records were read by the secretary, Mrs. Alta Sheen of Norway, and Treasurer A. M. True of Bethel reported the amount in the treasury the same as last year, $9.20, with the addition of a few cents in dividends from the Bethel Savings Bank.

Officers for the coming year were chosen by nomination from the floor as follows:

President—A. H. Hutchinson, Bethel. Vice President—Mrs. Eva L. Fogg, Norway; Mrs. L. A. Rounds, South Paris.

Secretary—Mrs. Alta Sheen, Norway. Treasurer—A. M. True, Bethel.

Press Correspondent—Arthur E. Forbes, South Paris.

Entertainment Committee—Mrs. Eva L. Fogg, Mrs. L. A. Rounds, Grinnell, Stuart, Gilman Whitman, Mrs. Alta Sheen, Mrs. J. W. Chase.

The next meeting will be held at the same place on the first Wednesday in August, 1914, according to the vote of the association.

A picnic dinner was eaten, with coffee furnished by Brown Corps of Bethel, and a social hour was enjoyed.

Mr. Maxim who presided at the afternoon session, for which no special program had been arranged, but which was occupied largely by speeches and reminiscences. Several war songs were also sung by the audience, with Mrs. Chase at the piano, and there was a treat by Franklin Maxim and Gilman Whitman.

Col. Wm. T. Easton of South Paris urged the training of children in patriotism, and rejoiced in a reunited country.

A. M. True of Bethel said that the special duty of patriotic citizens is not to recall what we did fifty years ago, but to be willing to-day to sacrifice for the good of the country or the community. He also gave some interesting reminiscences of days in the Shenandoah valley.

Mrs. W. H. Tarbox of Fryeburg, a former president of the state department of the ladies of the U. A. I. who was here especially for this meeting, mentioned the fact that when she was three years of age, her father laid down his life on the third day at Gettysburg, and emphasized the importance of the work done by the order of which she was formerly the head in instructing the young in patriotism.

Others who spoke rather briefly regarding the special purpose of the association, or gave reminiscences of the days of the civil war, were J. A. Noyes of South Paris, W. D. Tarbox of Fryeburg, H. H. Maxim of South Paris, Mrs. Hester of Randolph, J. H. Benn of South Paris, and E. L. McFarland of South Paris.

FIELD DAY OF THE ROUND TABLE CLUB.

Among the "Brandy Spots" around Bethel one is prettier than the little hotel on the bank of the Androscoggin near Larry Farm Lodge.

Through the kindness of Mrs. Russell the R. T. C. were allowed to use the place for their meeting which was held soon after our arrival. When business was over the time remaining was given over to the usual occupations of picnickers, playing, reading, sewing, conversing and most important of all, feasting. A portion of the company went to the top of the ledge and from that lovely view drew inspiration to write and over the valley the tones of the fifth song, which were responded to by those remaining on the bank.

Altogether it was pronounced a fine day for the club and it is hoped that the annual event may long be continued, with unbroken ranks in our assembly.

POSTMASTER J. C. BILLINGS

Died Tuesday, August 12

Mr. Jarvis C. Billings passed away Tuesday night, Aug. 12th, after a long illness in which the end was expected at any time.

Mr. Billings was born in North Woodstock, May 8, 1840, the son of Silas and Abigail Billings. He attended the schools of Woodstock and early learned the blacksmith's trade, and at the age of eighteen went to Farmington to pursue his trade.

March 20, 1861, he married Sarah Frances Kilgore, daughter of Freeman and Susan Kilgore. Two children were born to them, Robert, born Aug. 14, 1863, and Alice, born Sept. 13, 1867.

Coming to Bethel in 1865 Mr. Billings bought the Richardson blacksmith shop on Mechanic Street and continued in business as a blacksmith and carriage maker until Aug. 9, 1893, when he was appointed postmaster. He served as selectman of Bethel for several years and resigned as chairman of the board to accept the postmastership.

He was a member of Bethel Lodge, No. 97, F. & A. M., has filled all the chairs and has been D. D. Grand Master; also a member of the Chapter and Council, the I. O. O. F., and K. of P.

Mr. Billings has always been a loyal citizen and has served very acceptably as postmaster from the date of his appointment up to the present time, and is a man that will be greatly missed in the community.

He leaves a widow, who has tenderly cared for him during his sickness, and son, Robert, to mourn his loss. Funeral services will probably be held Friday.

MISS BESSIE MASON.

On Monday evening of this week a telegram brought to Mrs. F. B. Tuell the news of the death of her youngest sister, Miss Bessie Mason, at Pomona, Cal., in the early morning hours of that day.

Miss Mason had had from childhood a latent affection of the heart which had very recently developed in an acute form. During a short and severe illness of about six weeks duration she received the most devoted attention and care in the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Johnson, of Pomona.

Miss Mason was born in Bethel and her childhood and early girlhood years were spent here. Most of her later life was passed in California where she went with her family in 1897. Visits here with her sister have kept her in touch with the people of her native town who hold in pleasant remembrance the sweet, sunny nature which endeared her to all. Her life has been one of much usefulness, devoted to the happiness and well-being of those about her at the will of a singularly unselfish and helpful disposition.

The sense of loss and loneliness is most keen to those who miss the young member of a devoted family circle, and particularly deep for the two sisters to whose sorrow is added the grief of having been separated from her by the with of the continent during the last days of her earthly life. All sympathy is theirs from friends everywhere.

O. E. S. FIELD DAY.

Members of the Bethel O. E. S. and over one hundred other representatives from Eastern Star Chapters of Oxford County attended the field day last week at Bryant's Pond.

The Bryant's Pond chapter had made all possible arrangements to make the day a success. Mrs. Felt very kindly loaned her cottage, which is at the head of Lake Christopher, for the occasion. Boats were procured for the day and plenty of nice coffee was served, each member having brought his own lunch.

After dinner old familiar songs were sung, Miss Perkins of Bryant's Pond presiding at the organ. Miss Barlow of West Paris sang most delightfully, "The Hoxby."

It was then proposed that an association be formed of all O. E. S. chapters of Oxford County and each year a field day should be observed. Officers were elected as follows: Mrs. Bailey of Bryant's Pond, president; Mrs. Stratton of Dixfield, vice president; Miss Annie Felt of Bethel, secretary. The executive committee: Miss Jennie Parkman, Norwell; Miss Emma Hill, West Paris; Mrs. Howard Smith, Waterford.

SEE THE NON-SKID TREADS ON NO-RIM-CUT TIRES

These are extra treads, made of very tough rubber, vulcanized on to the Goodyear tire. Thus a double-thick tread.
The extra tread consists of deep-cut blocks. They present to the road surface countless edges and angles.
Each block widens out at the base, so the strains are distributed, the same as on smooth-tread tires.
Come see how efficient, how enduring, is this Goodyear winter tread.

IRVING L. CARVER,
BETHEL, MAINE.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snow and four children of Bryantville, Mass., called on friends in town recently.

Miss Luella Boothby returned to her home in Melrose, Mass., Monday, after spending a few weeks with Miss Alice Mason.

Mrs. Sarah Russell returned home last week from Woodstock, Vermont, where she was called by the death of her sister.

Mrs. Carol Brown went to Lewiston, Saturday, to visit her husband at the C. M. G. Hospital. She reports him improving.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Farwell of West Bethel and Miss Ada Farwell of Auburn, Indiana, were calling on relatives in town Monday.

Lon Chapman has bought the old Twichell place, situated near Mr. E. C. Chamberlain's, of H. H. Hastings, Esq., and will make many improvements.

Mock good natured rivalry is being stirred up between the married and single men on account of the ball game to be played Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Walter Lawrence of Woodford visited her mother, Mrs. Merrill, Sunday. Her son, Harold, who has been spending the past month here returned home with her.

The J. A. Thurston Co., is the owner of a new Reo truck which is to be used for carrying spoil and dower stock to the station.

Mr. and Mrs. Nowell Littlehale from Gorham, Me., spent a few days with his brother, Silas Littlehale, on Mason Street, and went to Upton, Tuesday, on the stage to visit their son.

Trial Justice Bennett of Gilead was in town, Monday, to hear a case against a fellow who had raised a check given him by D. R. Hastings. It was rather a clever job of check raising, but the fellow plead guilty and was bound over to the October term of court.

Those who heard Miss Helen York sing recently will be interested in the following, taken from the account of the Race Valley Festival in the Bridgeport News: The Tuesday matinee was a popular program, the particular feature being the debut of Miss Helen York of Augusta, the talented young soprano. Her first appearance was in the aria, De puis le jour, (Loulie) and was a severe test, but she was equal to the occasion and the audience was greatly delighted with her interpretation. It was in the bright and coquettish French encore, however, that Miss York won her greatest triumph, and in the later songs, her fascinating personality adding charm to her fresh young voice.

I wish to respectfully invite the public to visit the store formerly occupied by R. E. L. Farwell and inspect the line of Groceries, Fruits, Canned Goods, Confectionery and Cigars which I shall carry. Also Soaps and Washing and Cleaning Compounds.
Call and ask for what you want. If we haven't it we will say so.

Very Respectfully,
J. S. Hutchins.

HOME.

"Let home stand before all other things! No matter how high your ambition may transcend its duties, no matter how far your talents or your influence may reach beyond its doors, before everything else build a true home. Be not its slave; be its master! Let it be not enough that it is sweet and garnished, that its silver is brilliant, that its food is delicious, but feel the love in it, feel thought and aspiration, feed all charity and gentleness in it. Then from its walls shall come forth the true woman and the true man, who shall through their life and the land." Is this an overwrought picture? We think not. What honor can be greater than to found such a home? What dignity higher than to reign its undisputed mistress? What is the ability to speak from a public platform to large intelligent audiences, or the wisdom that may command a seat on the judge's bench, compared to that which can insure and preside over a true home, that husband and children "rise and call her blessed?" To be the guiding star, the ruling spirit in such a position is higher honor than to rule an empire.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING.

"I used to be ashamed if a particle of dust could be found anywhere in my house," said a notable housekeeper, "but lately I have changed my ideals and my methods. I have realized that I am growing older, and that I have been giving too much of my life merely to keeping things clean. Now I am trying to make them whole, and I am getting benefit and satisfaction from it."

The statement will doubtless shock some conscientious woman who is struggling, perhaps beyond her capital of strength and nervous energy, to maintain the traditions of a long line of famous housewives.

"Are we degenerating?" she asks. "As it be that with all our powders and polishes, our special soaps and brushes, our vacuum cleaners, our dustless dusters and fireless cookers, our gas ranges and electric irons, we are still unable to accomplish what our grandmothers achieved with the simple equipment of their day?"

What you have not considered, dear madam, is this: that all these modern dirt-destroyers hardly counterbalance the modern makers of dirt.

Your grandmother lived on a quiet country road, where there were no passing automobiles to raise clouds of dust. Her dairy lane and linen were not soiled by a shopping trip in a soft-soled city. Her carpets were not smudged by the trackings from oil-treated streets. Her days were not occupied in cleaning innumerable sets of special table silver, or polishing hardwood floors. That is why she could take her knitting and run over to her neighbor's for a long, leisurely afternoon call.

Housekeeping may be taught in the schools as a science, but it must be practical in the home as an art; and that means that the housekeeper must cultivate a sense of proportion. No home is well ordered in which mistress has become servant, and the tasks that ought to be but household duties to the home life are allowed to crowd the slave-driver's whip. And no woman is a really good housekeeper until she has learned that the real housekeeping may charge against her many things more serious than leaving her supper dishes until the next morning—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

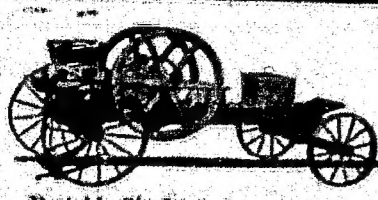

FILLING FOR SANDWICHES.

Lettuce and Onion—Chop lettuce and onion coarsely, add salt, pepper, a pinch of mustard, small amount of vinegar for filling of sandwiches. Mayonnaise may be used for the dressing if desired. The lettuce, hard boiled egg and mayonnaise need together also good.

Ham Sandwich—Chop crisp salted ham, add salt with a little pepper. Spread on well buttered thin slices of bread.

Cucumber Sandwich—Slice the cucumber very thin, soak a half-hour in salt water, dry the slices, then dip in cream dressing. Place three with a lettuce leaf between the pieces of bread, which have been lightly buttered.

Vegetable Ham Filling—Cold boiled corn chopped fine with lettuce and hard boiled egg is good when mixed with mayonnaise. Cold boiled ham and mayonnaise spread on the bread, then sliced corn served over it before adding the other slice of bread is fine. Cold boiled beef or chicken may be used instead of ham.

Salmon Sandwiches—Chop cabbage very fine. Stir into salmon which has been well broken up, and add salt, pepper and enough lemon juice to make rather sour.

Fruit and Nut Sandwiches—Chop raisins, figs and English walnuts together. Add enough sweet cream to make the mixture spread well. Put between the slices of Graham bread.

Chicken Sandwiches—Chopped chicken or turkey can be mixed with the lettuce or cabbage and mayonnaise for filling. These meats mixed alone with barely enough mayonnaise to make them spread will be found very appetizing when placed between thin slices of bread with a small spoonful of cranberry sauce.

Plain Lettuce Sandwiches—Lettuce soaked in salt water an hour, then placed between thin, lightly buttered slices of white bread, spread very lightly, with mayonnaise makes a delicate tea sandwich.

Marshmallow Surprises—For a sweet sandwich, dissolve a dozen marshmallows in a double boiler or over the steam of the teakettle. When melted, beat in a quarter of a pound of chopped raisins, and, if you wish, a few nuts, and spread between thin slices of bread and butter. Tiny sandwiches of sliced cake are delicious with this filling.

Sandwiches of Fig Paste—Nuts, figs, and raisins chopped together, with a tablespoonful of peanut butter to each cupful of fruit, makes a delicious sandwich.

Ginger Sandwiches—In an emergency, sandwiches may be quickly made from a jar of Canton ginger. Cut the ginger in very fine pieces, and lay between unbuttered slices of white bread. If you have any dates to add to the filling, it makes a wonderful combination.

Ham Sandwiches—One cupful of finely-chopped ham, one-half tablespoonful of finely-chopped olives, one-half tablespoonful of finely-chopped pickles, three tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise dressing. Spread the mixture between lightly-buttered slices of white bread.

CONVINCING TESTIMONY Given By Many Bethel People

Experiences told by Bethel people—Those who have had weak kidneys—Who used Doan's Kidney Pills—Who found the remedy effective—Such statements prove merit.

You might doubt an utter stranger. You must believe Bethel people. Here's Bethel proof. Verify it. Read: Investigate. Be convinced. You'll find why Bethel folks believe in Doan's.

C. H. Heath, Elm St., Bethel, Me., says: "I was suffering from backache, headache and dizzy spells. The secretions from my kidneys were too frequent in passage. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Rossmore's Drug Store and in a few weeks they cured me. The statement I gave, praising them before, still holds good."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McIlburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

GOVERNMENT'S AUGUST CROP REPORT.

Bumper Yield of Wheat Indicated—That of Corn $452,740,000 Bushels Less Than Last Year.

The Government's August grain crop report, eagerly awaited because of the reported serious damage to corn from drought and other conditions, was issued Aug. 8. It shows the condition of the principal crops on Aug. 1 and estimates the yield and production of each as follows:

Corn. Condition, 75.8 per cent. of a normal, compared with 80.9 per cent. on July 1, 1913; 80.0 per cent. on Aug. 1, 1912, and 82.2 per cent. the average for the past ten years on Aug. 1. Area planted, 106,851,000 acres, or 90.8 per cent. of last year's acreage. Indicated yield, 25.0 bushels per acre, compared with 20.2 bushels last year and 26.5 bushels, the average for the past five years. Estimated production, 2,672,000,000 bushels, compared with 2,124,740,000 bushels last year; 2,531,488,000 bushels in 1911; 2,986,260,000 bushels in 1910, and 2,532,000,000 bushels in 1909.

Winter wheat. It is preliminarily estimated the yield per acre of winter wheat is 16.5 bushels, compared with 15.1 bushels last year and 15.2 bushels, the average for the last five years. In the area planted, 30,038,000 acres, it is estimated preliminarily the total production of winter wheat is 511,000,000 bushels compared with 399,919,000 bushels last year, 430,050,000 bushels in 1911, 454,142,000 bushels in 1910 and 419,000,000 bushels in 1909. The quality of winter wheat is 93.7 per cent. compared with 90.7 last year, 90.2 per cent. in 1911 and 92.2 per cent. the five year average.

Spring wheat. Condition, 74.1 per cent. of a normal compared with 73.9 per cent. last month, 90.4 per cent. last year and 84.4 per cent. the average for the past ten years. WOMAN TOOK FRIEND'S ADVICE

And Found Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Windom, Kansas.—"I had a displacement which caused bladder trouble and I was so miserable I didn't know what to do. I suffered from bearing down pains, my eyes hurt me, I was nervous, dizzy and irregular and had female weakness. I spent money on doctors but got worse all the time."

"A friend told me about the Pinkham remedies and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was cured. I cannot praise my remedies enough, for I know I never would have been well, if I had not taken it."

—Miss MARY A. HORNBY, Route No. 2, Box 41, Windom, Kansas.

Consider Well This Advice.
No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for nearly forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

TAKING CARE OF EARTH ROADS.

Use of a Road Drag Advocated—The Cause of Fuddles.

If you look at the ordinary country road after a shower you will see small puddles along the wheel ruts, and sometimes larger pools, says a United States department of agriculture bulletin. This water stays on the road surface because it cannot drain away into the side ditches. If you look closely you will see side ditches which have grown up with bushes and weeds in many cases, and which are so far from the traveled part of the road that the rain water does not drain into them. That part of the roadway where the wagons travel is called the traveled way. To prevent water from standing on the traveled way the road should be raised in the center, and should slope gently into broad shallow ditches. It is then said to have a crown. If it is 10 feet from the center of the road to the side ditch, the surface at the side ditch should be at least 10 inches lower than it is at the center where the horses travel. The road then has a 10-inch crown. The rain that falls on a road properly crowned will run quickly to the side and not soak into the surface or form pools. The side ditches for surface water should be parallel to the right of way, and should be open at every low point so that the water can run out of them into neighboring brooks or streams. If the ditches merely collect the water from the road surface and it cannot run away, large pools will be formed along the roadside, which will gradually sink into the soil beneath the road and make it so soft that the wheels of wagons will cut through the road surface and soon destroy it.

Sometimes water runs from land along the road into the road and forms a little stream down the wheel tracks or in the middle where the horses travel. When driveways into farm yards are built across the side ditches they frequently form channels for water from the farm yard to run into the road. The pipes under driveways become filled with leaves or rubbish and the water can no longer run away. If the driveways that stop the ditch water were rebuilt so that no pipes were necessary and the ditch could be left open, much trouble from surface water would be stopped.

Sometimes a road runs across low ground or through a swamp where the road cannot be drained by side ditches. If the road were built higher like a railroad embankment across such low land and made with a crown, it would be dry and hard. Sometimes a road passes through what is called a cut. This is a place where the earth has been dug out so that the road can go over a hill without being too steep. The water which always flows quietly under the ground on hillside is known as ground water. To road into such water sometimes makes the road very muddy, and the road then needs water courses and the road then needs water courses and the road then needs water courses.

with loose stones no bigger than an egg. When the trench is completely filled with loose stones the ground water, instead of soaking into the roadway, will stop among the stones and flow down the hill through the pipe.

To drag a road smooth and crowned, the best method is to drag it with a road drag. A road drag is made easily with two halves of a log which has been split. The log should be about six or eight inches in thickness and about six or eight feet long. The two halves of the log are set three feet apart, with the smooth faces forward and upright. They are then fastened together with braces set in holes bored through the log. A pair of horses may be used to drag the road, and are hitched to a chain fastened to the front half of the log. The road drag should move forward so that it slants across the road in such a way that a small amount of earth will slide past the smooth face of the log toward the center of the road, thus forming the crown.

The edges of the logs will smooth out the ruts. The best way to drag is to begin at the side ditch and go up one side of the road and then down the other. In the next trip the drag should be started a little nearer the center, and the last trip over the road the drag may work close to the center itself. Small ridges of earth will be thrown in the horse tracks and smeared by the round side of the log smoothly over the road. The smearing of the earth by the drag is called "puddling," and it tends to make the surface of the road smooth and water-tight after the sun comes out. The road is always dragged after it has rained, and not when it is dry. A good, strong pair of horses with a well-built drag can drag about three or four miles of road in a day, and it is the best way to maintain good roads. In every county some farmer along each four miles of road should own a drag and drag the road when it rains. He would always find the road in good condition when he goes to market.

HOG RAISING.

In the Farmers' Week Course at Orono, in the Animal Industry Section, Professor Campbell gave an instructive lecture on Hog Raising. He emphasized the necessity for economic production in the following words: "Successful Hog Raising consists of producing pork cheaply and in getting the greatest net returns for feed, labor and capital." His lecture dealt with methods of raising and feeding swine.

The following is an abstract of his address: The cost of producing the pig depends upon the cost of keeping the sow for the year, also a proportionate part of the cost of maintenance, this of course varying with the number of pigs which he is the sire of. The cost of both sow and boar includes feed, labor, and overhead charges. From this it may be seen that a sow that produces only five pigs in a year brings the cost of the pigs up to about twice what it would be if she produced ten; or three times what they would cost if she produced fifteen. Consequently the necessity of selecting prolific stock, also of handling the sow in such a way that she will produce thrifty pigs and the saving of the pigs after farrowing is apparent.

It is also just as essential that good breeding stock be used in order to produce the right type of pig. It is a well recognized fact by all stockmen that the nearer to the birth period that a pound of grain can be made the cheaper will be the cost of that pound of grain. Any pig that is kept merely for fattening purposes should be ready for market by the time it is six to eight months of age. It is very likely that the hog dressing 400 or 500 pounds—varying in age from a year upward—over the feeder more than the hog will possibly sell for.

WEST BETHEL.

Mrs. A. Browne was called to Auburn, Saturday, by the serious illness of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Edith Stiles.

age the meal has entirely replaced the milk. Many experiments have been conducted to determine whether the corn ground into meal is more efficient than whole corn. Usually the cornmeal has produced the best results. With corn at the price it usually is here in Maine it is safe to assume that it will always pay to grind the corn.

No saving is made by cooking the feed, in fact not quite so good returns have been made. The only exception to this is with potatoes. The hog likes cooked potatoes better and will eat them readily, while he will eat only a limited amount of raw ones.

If there are no dairy by-products available, feeding tankage may be used to take the place of skim milk. One part of tankage to 9 or 10 parts of meal (by weight) usually gives as good results as the milk. A ration of corn alone produces a very fat hog but as corn is lacking in ash the bone does not grow fast enough so but what the hog is frequently too heavy for his bones and the common expression is that the hog goes "off its feet." Barley may be used for fattening but does not make quite as large gains for the pounds fed as corn, and it is better when fed with other feeds. Barley may be used the same as Rye. Pasture alone as a rule does not furnish satisfactory ration, usually supplying little more than a maintenance but when used with a supplemental grain feed produces good results and more economical gains than when pasture is not used. One of the most economical pastures is rape—Swart Essex rape is the variety shown. Clover makes a good pasture, also peas and oats.

Everything considered the man who desires to grow pork in Maine has equal advantages with feeders in any part of the east.

Dairy by-products, pasture, potatoes, barley, corn—all furnish a part of the hog ration, and when converted into pork provide a manufactured form in which they can be sold with good returns.

Mothers! Have Your Children Worms?

Are they feverish, restless, nervous, irritable, dizzy or constipated? Do they occasionally pick their nose or grind their teeth? Have they cramping pains, irregular and ravenous appetite? These are all signs of worms. Worms not only cause your child suffering, but stunt its mind and growth. Give "Kickapoo Worm Killer" at once. It kills and removes the worms, improves your child's appetite, regulates stomach, liver and bowels. The symptoms disappear and your child is happy and healthy.

THE SHOE INDUSTRY.

Survey of the Field Showing Present Status in Maine.

In a survey of the shoe industry of New England, the Boston Herald has the following on the status of the business in Maine:

Maine is showing a steady development in its shoe manufacturing interests, and this is particularly evident in Auburn, which today is producing quite a variety of footwear. It is the birthplace and home of the canvas shoe, and there is more truth than fiction in the oft-repeated statement that "the world goes to Auburn for its canvas footwear." The two largest factories in the city specialize on all kinds of canvas footwear for men, women, boys, youths, misses and children.

One factory produces a line of men's wellies; two factories specialize on a medium and fine line of women's wellies; two factories specialize on meritorious lines of comfort shoes for men and women; while one factory sends its entire output of men's medium-priced shoes to the wholesale trade.

According to latest figures, Maine stands seventh in the list of shoe manufacturing states, and in addition to Auburn the factories of Portland, Gardiner and Lewiston make good showings. Maine is making more than $15,000,000 worth of shoes annually. The State gives employment to more than 10,000 shoemakers, and although there has been no large increase in factories during the last five years, the number of employees has increased from 30 to 40 per cent.

The shoemaking industry in Maine is outstripped only by the textile and paper mills, and the efforts which have been made systematically by the State and various town commercial organizations to encourage the business by such methods as the donation of factory sites, or tax exemptions, or bonuses, etc., have drawn many new manufacturers.

Maine factories make a specialty of brogue and shoes for sportsmen, guides, prospectors and rivermen, and the goods turned out are said to have a reputation for durability which causes a great demand for them in many parts of the country. Maine also does a very large business in the manufacture of canvas shoes, which is centered practically in the cities of Auburn and Lewiston.

Another great feature in Maine is the making of moccasins, the Indians of remote days having furnished the patterns for what is today an important branch of the footwear industry. The styles and workmanship of the Indian moccasins have been modernized and made adaptable to the civilization of the age, and there is a great demand for this class of goods.

The western colors obtained from the bark of berries and extracts from the bark of trees have given way to the synthetic types of coloring process, while the materials used in the manufacture of the Indian are still utilized to fashion marvelously fine and intricate patterns upon the soft leather slipper tops. In the early days each Indian made his own particular designs, and many of these have been preserved and are today found as features of ornamentation.

PACKING APPLES.

Atty. Gen. Wilson Interprets Law Recently Passed.

Many points have arisen as to the interpretation of the law passed at the last session of the Legislature regulating the packing, shipping and sale of apples, so Hon. John A. Roberts of Norway, commissioner of agriculture, asked the opinion of Hon. Scott Wilson of Portland, the attorney general on the question.

Attorney General Wilson replied to Commissioner Roberts recently as follows:

1. The branding of apples for interstate or foreign shipment under the United States statute appears to be optional, but, if branded, must comply with provisions of law.

2. All packages of apples must be branded to comply with the Maine law whether they are to be sold for interstate or foreign shipment or for local sale.

3. The Maine statute allows other sizes than the bushel or barrel to be used, provided its contents are measured by the standard fixed in the statute.

4. Of course the meaning of the word used in this connection is to be determined by its common use. "Sound" ordinarily means free from rot or other defects but as this section seems to define about all other defects, it seems that the word "sound" in this connection would have reference more particularly to its freedom from decomposition.

5. Section three seems to require the class or grade of apples to be plainly designated, which would, no doubt, include the "unclassified." In other words, in branding, there would be three classes: "One," "two" and "unclassified."

6. I think that either method could be used and comply with Section Three. The language seems to imply a printed label, but I think, a stencilling, which met the requirements, would be held to be a compliance with the law.

7. "Any person" is anyone who knowingly does any act which is in violation of the provisions of this chapter. It might be the agent of the purchaser, or any or all of the crew who did the grading and packing, or any other person who had to do with any of the acts that are necessary to be done in order to comply with this statute. To take a specific instance, if a purchaser orders his agent to pack and grade apples, if the work is done in the State of Maine and the agent fails to grade and classify, or brand, as required by statute, it seems to me that unquestionably he would be liable to prosecution.

8. Where an agent or owner orders a crew of men to grade, pack and brand, any or all would be liable who knowingly did any act that was in violation of the provisions of this statute. Of course, if one man has some special part of the work assigned to him, which had nothing to do with the classifying or branding, he would not be liable for what his fellow workmen did in improperly classifying or improperly branding. I think there must be a commission knowingly of some of the acts, which are in violation of this statute, in order to render any person liable to its penalties. And by knowing, I do not mean knowing the law, because every man is presumed to know the law; but that he intentionally does some of acts which constitute a violation of the law, that is, if you please, without any knowledge of the provisions of this law, puts apples which, under the statute are classified No. 2, into barrels which are marked No. 1, or fails to mark the barrels at all or marks as No. 1 apples which really should be classed "unclassified."

9. I am inclined to think that the Commissioner of Agriculture must proceed under Section Nine before he commences prosecution. That section taken in connection with Section 14, would seem to indicate that it was the intent of the Legislature for the commissioner to give a hearing before he started a prosecution.

10. The action can undoubtedly be brought in any county where the offense is committed. If the offense is in packing it might be brought in the county where the packing took place or if the offense is in transportation, adulteration or branding, the action would be brought in the county where the apples happened to be, that is, the party packing might be proceeded against in any county for adulteration or misbranding or transportation, where the apples happened to be, if they are still in his ownership. So many conditions might arise under this head that probably each one, if at all unusual, and better be taken up when it arises.

11. When I have said in reply to seven and eight would apply to this section, that any or all persons who knowingly participate in any of the acts that are prohibited in this section are liable to prosecution.

TRADE OF UNITED STATES BREAKS FOREIGN RECORD.

The trade of the United States in the past fiscal year was greater than in any previous year. Figures just completed show that it was $4,275,000,000 greater by $121,000,000 than last year's record of exports and imports. The balance in favor of the country this year was $633,000,000. The exports exceeded those of 1912 by $201,500,000 while the imports increased by only $150,000,000. The greatest gain in exports was in manufactures ready for consumption in which class there was an increase of $105,000,000 over 1912. In manufactures for further use in manufacturing there was an increase of more than $60,000,000. The increase in foodstuffs was only a little more than $1,500,000.

Most of the imports were from the United Kingdom, which furnished $206,000,000, while Germany came next with $189,000,000; next France with $137,000,000; Cuba with $126,000,000; Canada with $121,000,000; Brazil with $120,000,000 and Japan with $23,000,000. Most of the exports went to the United Kingdom, which took goods worth $397,000,000; Canada, $115,000,000; Germany, $133,000,000; France, $110,000,000; Netherlands, $126,000,000 and Italy, $70,000,000.

It was an arduous task for the teacher to draw into her youthful pupils the principles of arithmetic.

"Now, listen," she said. "In order to subtract, things have to be in the same denomination. This is what I mean: Now, you couldn't take three apples from four peaches, nor eight marbles from twelve buttons. It must be three apples from four apples, and so on.

"Do you understand?"

The majority seemed to grasp the idea. One perky little youngster in the rear, however, raised a timid hand.

"Please, teacher," he inquired, "couldn't you take three quarts of milk from two cows?"

The prospects of a lasting peace was of short duration. The war between England and France put a new face upon matters here between the English and Indians. In August of 1763 the whole land from Cape Port to the town of Wells was ceded. The whole settlement of Cape Elizabeth Point (now Perry village) consisting of a dozen families were all murdered but one man.

"Mohe," it is claimed, of the Nor-ridge tribe, was the chief of the attacking party upon the Cape Port.

Finding to gain an entrance by stratagem they sailed along the bank between the fort and water and after working two days upon a trench leading towards the fort, reinforcements for the English arrived by a ship, and the warfare was obliged to cease.

When Hon. James F. Baxter of Portland was in London searching the archives there for historical facts pertaining to this country he found a copy of the original ground plan of the Magua's made that appears on page

416, Series 7, vol. 6, of the Collection of the Maine Historical Society. It appears that Mr. Baxter was there with the family and spent two years in search of sources relating to Maine history.

This same plan was a copy of one furnished on the part of the Maine Historical Society, which collects at this time a number of the Indian songs and the last copy of existence an account of its great expense, but the plan would not set upon the vote of the Great and General Court and the military and testing result was put up all about the year 1715, when the fort at Brunswick was repaired

by the Garrison removed from there to this place.

Records are conflicting, but it is evident the country about Old and New Casco was almost wholly deserted and it was pretty much so by the original occupants of the soil and their descendants, but a new population, flowing in later, had come to and were occupying the soil when Old Casco, now

Portland and vicinity appeared upon petition in 1718 as a town by the name of Portland. Then there was intestine war between the new claimants and heirs of the old, when many new titles in Portland were won by the false swearing of "two witnesses."

Only a Mask.

Many are not being benefited by the summer vacation as they should be.

Now, notwithstanding much outdoor life, they are little if any stronger than they were. The tan on their faces is darker and makes them look healthier, but it is only a mask. They are still nervous, easily tired, quiet by trifle, and they do not eat or sleep well. What they need is what tones

the nerves, perfects digestion, creates appetite, and makes sleep refreshing, and that is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Pupils and teachers generally will find the chief purpose of the vacation best subserved by this great medicine which,

as we know, "builds up the whole system."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Although Woodrow Wilson has been President but a little over five months, he has demonstrated beyond question his fitness to deal with big national problems in a statesmanlike way, even though his political opponents differ with him in fundamentals of government with especial reference to the needs and desires of the people. While the Wilson administration will be marked by the breaking of many time-honored precedents, it will also be distinguished for the number of literary men chosen to represent the government at the capitals of Europe and the East, many of the men thus chosen standing in the front ranks of the literary of the American nation, whose works are household words wherever the English language is spoken.

Not alone, however, will the Wilson administration be distinguished for the number of literary men who have been made ambassadors and ministers to foreign governments, but it will be universally commended for the generally exceptionally high character of those selected for diplomatic places not only to the republics to the south of us, but to Europe and the Orient.

Whatever may arise to embarrass the Wilson administration, it cannot be said that mediocre men were selected for high positions at the diplomatic courts of the world.

Richard Lee Metcalf, of Nebraska, a widely known newspaperman, and former editor of William Jennings Bryan's "Commoner," whose influence sent him to the Canal Zone as chairman of a commission, and who will probably become Governor of the "strip," when the new government of the island goes into effect, has great faith in good wishes. This was illustrated when, just before leaving for his new post of duty, Mr. Metcalf told a gathering of friends in Washington, assembled to wish him "goodspeed," the beautiful story of the "Servant in the House."

"He was only a little girl, a character in a wonderful, but modern drama I once saw," he said, "but it was through her wishing that everybody was drawn into a spirit of comradeship and fellowship such as the house had never known before. She wrought this change through nothing but her faith and earnestness devoid of guile in her constant waiting. May I ask you, like-

STONE-STEARN.

Last Thursday evening, Aug. 7, at the home of the bride occurred the marriage of Carl E. Stone and Miss Josephine B. Stearns both of Norway.

The ceremony was performed under the trees on the lawn, the people standing beneath an arch of greenery and cut flowers. The single ring service was performed by the pastor of the Congregational church, Rev. H. J. Bruce. The wedding march was played by Miss Maude Pike, and the bride was given away by her brother, Hon. A. J. Stearns.

The bridesmaids were Miss Florence Rickett and Miss Jennie Mann, the maid of honor was Miss Donna Yeaton, and the flower girls were Misses Alice and Elizabeth Bartlett. The best man was Dr. James Starveant of Dixfield. The bride was dressed all in white with bridal veil. After the ceremony a collation was served on the lawn where small tables had been arranged. Colored lights were turned on and amid the decorations, the overhanging trees and the lively movement of the guests was a pleasant scene.

In the receiving line for the reception was the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Stone, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Stearns and Mrs. Eleanor Stone. Among the guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Barker of Evansburg, Pa., Dr. Olin Barker of Johnston, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Stearns, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown, Mrs. Virgil Littlefield, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bartlett, and Misses Frances and Elizabeth, Stoneham, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Walker of Lowell, Dr. John French of Providence, R. I., Henry F. French of Boston, Miss Abbie Stone, and Mrs. Julia M. French. Many beautiful presents were received.

The couple are well known in this vicinity. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Stone. He is a graduate of Bowdoin and is an experienced draughtsman, and is now in the employ of the Van Camp Company at Indianapolis, Ind. The bride is well known having lived here all her life, recently with the family of her brother, A. J. Stearns, and graduated from Bates this year. They will make their home in Indianapolis.

GREEN-EATON.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Eaton, in Oxford, Wednesday evening, their daughter, Florence Lillian, was united in marriage to Carl Robinson Green of Waterville. Rev. Frederick Newport of Turner officiated in the presence of relatives and friends. The residence was handsomely decorated with evergreen and flowers. Isabelle Thompson played the wedding march and the wedding party entered the parlor and took their places under an arch of evergreen and pink sweet peas. Sidney A. Green of Waterville, brother of the bridegroom acted as best man and Lona H. Carr of Oxford was maid of honor. The ribbon girls were Geneva Barker of Norway, Ethel Pierce of Westminster, Mass., Margie Philbrook of Scarborough, N. H., and Angie Thayer of South Paris. The ring bearer was Howard Andrews and the flower girls were Mavisella Farris and Corinne Andrews, young cousins of the bride. Dr. H. H. Farris and H. V. Smith were the ushers.

The bride's gown was of white crepe lace with train, trimmed with lilies and orange blossoms. She wore a veil and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a gown of blue messaline, and carried flowers. The bride's groom's gift to the bride was a gold bracelet with pendant of diamonds and pearls. To the best man and others he gave gold cuff links. The bride's gift to the maid of honor was an ornament of the catch tips for the hair and to the ribbon girls and planet were hair combs. Many beautiful gifts were received, including silver and glass and china. Following the ceremony and collation, refreshments were served to nearly one hundred guests. Mrs. Charles Howe of Milton, Mass., and Mrs. Walter Andrews of Hartford, Conn., presided at the tables. Marion Helle of Lisbon, Alberta Farris, Lucy Lane, Marion Mathiel and Margie Gile Starbuck, also assisted in serving. The bride is a graduate of Smith's Academy and a young friend of Epworth club, Boston and for the past two years has been the teacher of grammar and penmanship at Kent's Hall Seminary, where she has been for more than a year, followed an investigation that completed nearly six years of hearings. Special examinations of accounts and books were made by the various phases of the expert business. OUT IN EXPRESS RATES.

carriers to eliminate the circuitous routes which are not a source of complaint on the part of shippers.

The Parcel Post.

With regard to the parcel post and its effect upon the express companies, the report says:

"With regard to the small package business of the parcel post it should be noted that it will still be carried upon the railroads of the United States. It is as the rail carriers are concerned, it is of no consequence to them whether they furnish transportation for the express companies or for the parcel post department. The express companies, moreover, will not experience a loss of their earnings upon these small parcels but only of the net difference between their earnings heretofore and the cost to them of furnishing terminal service upon these parcels. The commission's conclusion is that the establishment of the parcel post is not a justification for any higher rate of rates than the one now shown to be reasonable."

"The commission's order is for two years only. That period will give shippers opportunity for a test of these rates under varying conditions according to a normal average. In no other way can the absolutely proper rate basis for shippers be fairly determined. Respondents are also at liberty at any time to bring forward new facts as a basis for a petition for modification of this or any other order."

The direction of the commission's report as it has been for more than a year, followed an investigation that completed nearly six years of hearings. Special examinations of accounts and books were made by the various phases of the expert business. Nearly a cabinet of books and papers have been filed and are a part of the proceedings to this case.

No Saccharin in Clicquot Club

A lb. of Saccharin, worth 60c, sweetens the same amount of Ginger Ale as a barrel of Sugar, worth $16.

The rich, heavy syrup used in Clicquot Club Ginger Ale is made of pure granulated sugar refined especially for us. Cheap ginger ale is usually sweetened with saccharin (unless forbidden by State laws), tastes accordingly, and has no more body than the water of which it is chiefly composed. Clicquot Club Syrup is made of pure sugar and imported ginger root of the finest quality.
